THE CHESS PLAYERS' CORNER

SCHLECHTER IS SURE OF A TIL FOR FIRST AND SECOND PRIZES.

At the Conclusion of the Sixteenth Bound of the Hamburg Tourney Duras Was the Only Rival Who Could Tie the Austrian Expert for Chief Honors.

When the chose masters engaged in the international tournament at Hamburg con international formanies: I randorg con-cluded play in the sixteenth round on Friday evening the Austrian champion. Carl Schlechter, managed to held the lead over Duras and had the satisfaction of knowing that the worst which could happen to him was to tie for first and second prizes with the Boheman master, O. S. Duras. The latter, in order to accomplish this feat, would first of all have to heat Schlechter in an adjourned game from the fourteenth round, played on Wednesday, and next be had to win his same with hochniem in the thal round. If schlechter, however, should succeed in wantant les game with John in the final round, which might almost be taken for granted, the Austrian would secure first prize in spite of Duras placing two additional was to his credit. The distribution of the other prizes depend-upon the results of the games in the fluid rounds, as the leaders, Niemzowitsch, Smel The latter had an adjourned game with Leonhardt in hand and might thus increase his total number of points to 10. This expert has a bye in the final round. From the big table containing all the re-sults up to date the readers will be enabled.

to make their own calculations as regard the chances of the prize winters

It is to be regretted that the American champion, Frank J Marshall, was unable to maintain his brilliant form exhibited last week, and the reverses he had to contend with in the last four of five rounds have brought him down to south place. On the other hand, both Vates, and Tarrasch are to be congratulated upon having shown much better form toward the latter part of the tournament. According to the programme all the adjourned games, were to be disposed of vesterday, while the final round was scheduled for to-morrow
